MEMORANDUM FOR: Members, DCI Security Committee

SUBJECT: Study of Harassments and Provocations

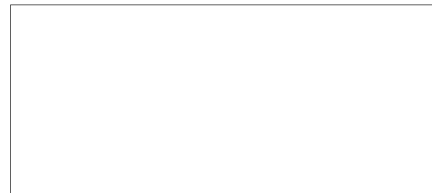

STAT

REFERENCE: My Memo SECOM-D-021 Dated 13 January 1982

1. Referenced memorandum circulated a draft of a new study on this subject, based on a number of good submissions provided earlier by SECOM members. The final version, accommodating suggestions made by addressees, has been sent to the printers and should be available reasonably soon.

2. The CIA member, in responding to reference, suggested that it would be of great benefit to the industrial security world if the study could be edited in a version not requiring national security classification. noted that this would help meet the security problem of technological espionage and targeting faced by contractors and their cleared employees. In response to his request, we edited the classified draft and inserted an unclassified defensive security briefing paper used by CIA to produce the attached version which is proposed for release as an "Official Use Only" document. Cases described in this version are from unclassified, Official Use Only submissions from CIA and the Air Force, or are sanitizations of Department of State submissions. We propose to make the attached unclassified version available to Community departments and agencies for them to release to their contractors for use by contractor security officers in administering defensive security briefings to cleared contractor employees.

3. Addressees are requested to review the attached draft and to provide by 28 May 1982 any comments they may have on it and on the proposed use to be made of this version.
